

Courage

Joseph

But Joseph looked at his brothers and his eyes filled with tears. Even though his brothers had hurt him and hated him and wanted him dead-in spite of everything-he couldn't stop loving them. His heart, which they had broken, filled up with love, and Joseph forgave them. "Don't be afraid," he said. "Behind what you were doing, underneath everything that was happening, God was doing something good. God was making everything right again."
